ISE Elementary School G1

Grade 1 students started a new Science unit. We conducted a scientific observation. We used our five senses, nose, eyes, ears, hands, and mouth to investigate popcorn. We smelled the popcorn and even squished it to hear its sound. Lastly, we ate the popcorn to check what it tasted like.

Research projects allow students to engage in their own interests, explore academic content, and create personal meaning by connecting their own thought processes to a topic. The recently completed landform project is an example of this.

Landform Project

1. Pick a landform, such as, plains, hills, mountains, plateaus, canyons, buttes, rivers, basins, or valleys.
2. Research this landform. Learn about how they form, where we might see them, some examples.
3. Write from your research:
 - a. Explain the facts from your research. (Reporting)- two to three paragraphs.
 - b. Write from your personal desires or experiences, or possibly both. One to two paragraphs.
4. Draw a picture to illustrate (show) your ideas.
